

Forman Holt & Eliades is one of the most successful firms dedicated to bankruptcy and business insolvency matters in New Jersey today. Based in Bergen County, with additional offices in New York and Philadelphia, this elite 14-attorney firm has earned a reputation for effectively managing and resolving insolvency-related issues in all manner of commercial enterprise.

With roots dating to the late 1970s, Forman Holt & Eliades has represented all parties in bankruptcy proceedings, including debtors, creditors and trustees. The firm's attorneys focus on loan workouts, transactional work, and restructurings, in addition to Chapter 11 and Chapter 13 reorganizations and Chapter 7 liquidations.

The firm is renowned for handling some of the most complex and challenging insolvency work in the region. What's more, Forman Holt & Eliades is recognized for its national presence in franchise-related work, and serves as national bankruptcy counsel to the hospitality and real estate divisions of the world's largest franchisor. Forman Holt & Eliades also aggressively litigates highly contested cases on behalf of its clients in state, federal and bankruptcy courts.

FORMIDABLE EXPERTISE IN BANKRUPTCY LAW

Forman Holt & Eliades has represented clients in major bankruptcy cases involving real estate, technology, telecommunications, securities, employee-benefit issues and lender disputes. Further, the firm is recognized for its prowess in handling commercial fraud cases, including the investigation and litigation of insider malfeasance claims.

One of the firm's founders, Charles Forman, serves as trustee in Chapter 11 and Chapter 7 bankruptcy cases of national significance. Recognized by the U.S. Department of Justice for his exemplary work as a bankruptcy trustee, Forman was the sole recipient of the National Director's Award for Outstanding Achievements by a Private Trustee.

Not all of the clients referred to Forman Holt & Eliades are headed to bankruptcy court. Often, clients will seek counsel regarding their financial situation only to learn that they have options other than bankruptcy. "Our job," says Daniel Eliades, "is to assess the problems of distressed businesses and individuals and pursue the course of action that is in the client's best interest."

With formidable expertise, experience and integrity, Forman Holt & Eliades brings a creative and results-oriented focus to its clients. Says Michael Holt: "Our attorneys have the depth of experience and the dedication to guide our clients through a challenging process and ultimately to help them succeed."
